DISASTEROUS FIRE IN A NEVADA CITY

Business Section of Rawhide
Is Burned Down.

THREE THOUSAND HOMELESS

And Property Loss Is Estimated at Seven Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars—Score or More Persons Injured and Two Others Are Missing.

Rawhide, Nev., Sept. 5.—Three thousand people homeless, a score or more injured, and a property loss of over $750,000 is the result of a disastrous fire which started in Gardner's office, located in the Rawhide Drug company's building. Fanned by a gale, the fire swept rapidly south and east, to Balloon avenue and up Rawhide avenue to within fifty yards of the People's hospital.

Over a ton and a half of dynamite was used in demolishing buildings which in a measure stayed the flames' progress. The volunteer fire department and 500 miner volunteers worked heroically, but on account of the inflammable construction of the buildings, they were swept away like tinder.

Two hours after the fire started the business portion of Rawhide was a smoldering mass of ruins, the flames being finally checked south of Balloon avenue.

Among the first buildings to go was Collins' hardware store, which contained two tons of dynamite, which exploded with a terrific report, hurling burning planks and boards a great distance, setting fire to numerous buildings simultaneously.

Many people were slightly injured by flying debris, but none are reported seriously hurt.

Famine Was Feared.

A famine was feared, as all the supply houses and grocery stores were wiped out.

A subscription list was started and in a few minutes over $5,000 was raised and a relief train started from Reno carrying thousands of pounds of food and bedding.

All the mining towns of the state came quickly to the assistance of the Rawhide sufferers with cash contributions. San Francisco Mining Exchange at once sent a contribution of $500.

The fire destroyed the hoisting works of the Bluff Mining company, Grunt Hill properties and the Grunt boys' business office, the loss on these amounting to $10,000, which is the extent of damage done the mining properties.

Plans were well under way for a reconstruction of the town before the ashes were thoroughly cool.

The Press-Times and Rustler newspaper offices were saved, although the machinery of the News plant was destroyed.

The fire was brought under control after destroying the entire business section with the exception of one grocery store. This store has sold all of its provisions and unless food is rushed here there will be much suffering.

Two commercial travelers are reported to have lost their lives in the burning of the Ross hotel, but this has not been confirmed.

The town has been placed under martial law.

CONFERS WITH FAIRBANKS

Chairman Hitchcock Calls on the Vice President.

Indianapolis, Sept. 5.—Following out his policy of consulting with Republican leaders of former campaigns whenever the opportunity offers, Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock of the Republican national committee arrived here for a conference with Vice President Fairbanks. He spent about an hour at Mr. Fairbanks' home and then started for Detroit, where he will take the boat for Middle Bass island for a conference with Mr. Taft.

There were a large number of subjects considered between Mr. Hitchcock and Mr. Fairbanks, but the chief question discussed was the tour of the country which the vice president is to make under the auspices of the national committee. It is expected that the vice president's speaking trip will cover practically all of the country and especially will be used in territory where he made addresses during the campaign four years ago.

The directors of the speaking bureau of the national committee are considering the question of sending a number of prominent speakers with Mr. Fairbanks and giving them a special train or car for an extended tour. If made the trip will begin soon after Oct. 1.

RESPIRE FOR CONGRESS.

Grand Army Will Not Seek Relief Measures for Three Years.

Toledo, O., Sept. 5.—Not for three years will the Grand Army of the Republic ask congress for further relief measures. Resolutions looking to an amendment to the service pension bill, reducing to sixty-five years the age at which a veteran can receive $20 a month, another amending the pending widows' pension bill to make eligible all soldiers' widows who were married prior to the date of the passage of the bill, were laid in favor of the resolution granting congress three years respite from old soldier legislation.

It appeared to be the consensus of opinion of the leaders that too much hammering for pension bills and relief measures might soon create an unfavorable impression in the minds of congressmen and reflect discredit on the Civil war veterans.

Another way will be sought by the veterans to get before congress those bits of unfinished legislation which they feel cannot wait. The attention of the G. A. R. delegates was called by Kate Brownlee Sherwood to the status of the pending widows' pension bill, in which at present it is required that an applicant shall have been married a number of years prior to the present date. That the bill may be altered to allow the eligibility of those who marry up to the date of the passage of the bill, that matter may be placed in the hands of the pension agents. The same plan may be used with regard to the amendment to the service pension bill.

After the installation of the newly elected national officers the G. A. R. delegates decided upon Salt Lake City as the next meeting place.

NEW LIGHT ON MURDER.

Result of Examination of Dismembered Body of Actress.

Boston, Sept. 5.—Evidence throwing new light on the probable manner in which Hanorah Jordan of Somerville, known on the stage as Irene Shannon, was killed, was revealed, it is claimed, by the medical examiners who have been performing an autopsy on the dismembered body of the wife of Chester S. Jordan.

Jordan, in his confession, stated that his wife was killed by being knocked down stairs, and that he then cut up the body and placed it in the trunk in which it was found by the police.

While neither Medical Examiner G. B. McGrath of Boston, nor Medical Examiner T. H. Durrell of Somerville will state their findings at this time, it was learned that the examination indicated that Mrs. Jordan met her death by being struck on the head with a blunt instrument, possibly a flatiron, causing a fracture sufficient to cause death. Then, it is claimed, she was strangled.

Jordan was arraigned and after pleading not guilty to a charge of murder, was taken to jail to await a hearing on Sept. 11.

OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES

Three Persons Dead and Another Dying at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—Peter J. Schollert, head of the Schollert company, painters and decorators; Mrs. P. Schollert, his wife, and Lewis Christianson, brother of Mrs. Schollert, are dead at the Schollert home as the result of asphyxiation by illuminating gas. Hans Hendrickson, a cousin of Mrs. Schollert, is at the city hospital, where physicians say he cannot possibly recover.

A gas tube attached to a bath heater in the bathroom which became disconnected by coming in contact with the chain is assigned to be the cause of the accident. When the bodies were discovered gas was pouring from a small stub to which the tube should have been attached.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT.

Iowa Man Killed and Four Other Persons Injured.

Sigourney, Ia., Sept. 5.—While a party of West Liberty, Ia., men and women were driving along the highway south of this place en route to Ottumwa, their automobile slipped into a ditch and overturned, killing one man, C. H. Milnes, and injuring four others. Mr. Milnes, an undertaker at West Liberty, was pinned under the car as it turned over, and killed instantly. The injured are Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Bingham, Miss Mary Robertson and the chauffeur, Frank Peterslick.

One Killed and Five Injured.

New Rockford, N. D., Sept. 5.—Charles Olmstead, an engineer employed on a threshing rig belonging to W. B. Whitam of New Rockford, was instantly killed and five others were more or less seriously injured by the explosion of the engine boiler.

CAMPAIGN IN OHIO OPENED

Senator Beveridge Is the Principal Orator.

NATIONAL ISSUES DISCUSSED

Indiana Man Gives His Views on the Questions at Issue—Gravest One Is Whether Roosevelt's Standard Shall Be Handed to Taft or to Bryan.

Youngstown, O., Sept. 5.—The Republican campaign in Ohio was formally opened in this city with speeches by Governor Harris of Ohio, Governor Hughes of New York and Senator Beveridge of Indiana. Governor Harris discussed state issues, dealing largely with the liquor question, while Governor Hughes and Senator Beveridge handled issues of the national campaign. Senator Beveridge delivered the principal address of the day, which in part, follows:

We are midway in an historic movement for righteousness written into law. Shall that movement be carried out or wrecked? Its concrete expression is the Roosevelt policies. Shall they be saved or lost? Had the about-facers in both parties who now are powerless, succeeded, they could not have wrecked the movement, but only have delayed it. For the people would have gathered headway again until their purpose was worked out.

But extravagant schemes and emotional agitators can wreck it. The Revolution would have failed had impracticable men been in command instead of the cautious and wise, yet daring and determined Washington. Many a cause has gone down at the hands of hot-headed and eccentric friends.

And so today, in the American people's mighty moral advance, thus far successfully led by Theodore Roosevelt, the gravest question is whether we shall place our commander's standard in the hands of his most trusted captain, who will lead us safely and surely along the well-marked course we are following, or in the hands of those who will lead us on zig-zag marches after rash adventures until the whole movement dissolves in the people's disgust and the world's ridicule.

Roosevelt Period Historic.

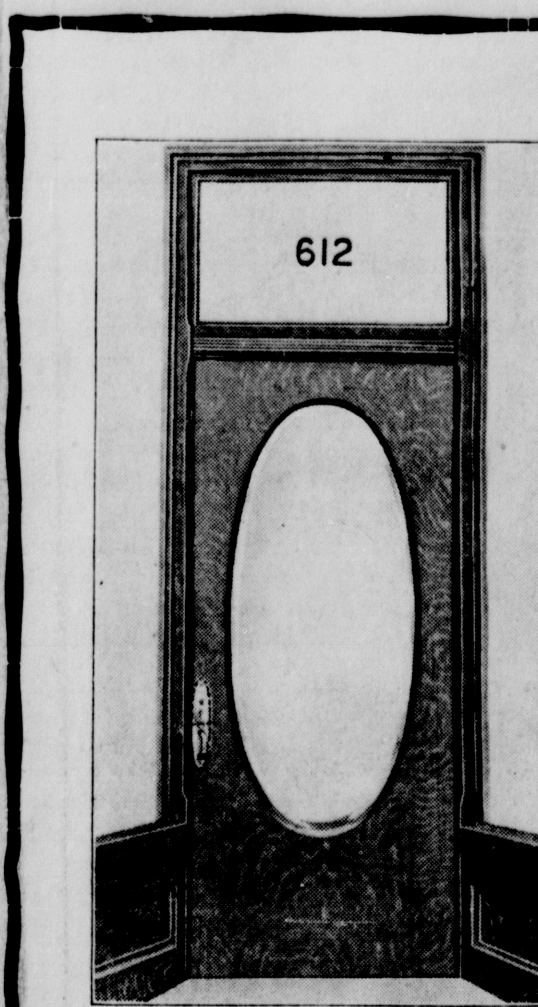

"By their fruits ye shall know them." Seven years ago we started upon the great work of modern and humane legislation that has made the Roosevelt period historic. In those years we passed the railroad rate bill, which for the first time in American history asserts 'the principle' that the government of all the people can and will regulate those who carry the products of all the people. We passed the meat inspection and pure food laws, which ended the sale of poisoned foods and adulterated drugs; the irrigation law, which is making fertile the arid West and will build within our own continental boundaries a new empire of productive wealth.

In these seven years we have enacted more important laws for the safety, comfort and welfare of labor than in any two decades since the government was founded. We passed the employers' liability law, which revolutionized the heartless rule of the common law and gives the railroad laborer or his family compensation for his injury or death; the law forbidding railroads from requiring employees to work an inhuman number of hours without rest; the safety appliance act, which not only lessens the danger to life and limb of employees, but which increases the safety of the traveling public. We passed the Chinese exclusion act, which keeps coolie labor out of the republic, and diminishes the number of coolies already here. We passed the government employees' liability law, by which every man who works for the government is certain of compensation for injury or his family for his death while in the government's employ.

All Are Republican Laws.

All these are Republican laws. Each of them is a part of that plan of statesmanship which seeks to write conscience and humanity upon our statute books. Each of them was opposed secretly or openly by both Democrats and Republicans; each of them received both Republican and Democratic votes. But each of them was urged by a Republican president, originated by Republican statesmen, and some of them were not even thought of outside the Republican party. For example, even Mr. Bryan never dreamed of the meat inspection and pure food laws, yet that law means more to the health of the American people than all the curious devices he ever proposed.

In these seven historic years we have also advanced the American name throughout the world, increased toward us the good will of nations and added to our lasting power in international affairs. At home and abroad our work already done has been so vast that the world speaks of it with praise and wonder; but we are midway in that work, and the question is whether we shall go on until we finish it.

Mr. Bryan complains that it is not finished now. But a brick at a time is the way to build a house. Would you trust an architect who promised to build it in the wink of an eye? The instantaneous statesman writes no sound laws, works no lasting reform.

Aladdin rears none but imaginary palaces.

Of the work that remains, the first is to revise the tariff. The tariff we shall make will protect American industries, and also open foreign markets to American products. A straight out revenue tariff is ancient; a single protective tariff is out of date—we Republicans propose to keep up with the times. As a straight revenue tariff gives everything away to foreign nations and gets nothing in return, so a straight out protective tariff gives nothing away and gets nothing in return. The modern tariff is a maximum and minimum tariff—a high tariff to be applied to any nation that will not give us advantages in its markets, and a lower tariff, still protective, to be granted to any nation that will give us advantages in its markets. The Republican idea is to meet other commercial nations with their own weapons.

That man or nation has begun to die who refuses to learn; and just as the French and Germans and other commercial people learned the wisdom of a single protective tariff from us, so we must learn the advantages of a double protective tariff from them.

Such a tariff will sell abroad many head of live stock, barrels of flour, manufactured articles, where one now is sold. This increase in trade means new employment for the laborers, new markets for the farmer.

Republicanism Means Advance.

Nor will we stop there. Republicanism means advance. Tens of thousands of American citizens are demanding a tariff commission. The great organized producing interests—manufacturers, farmers, stock raisers—have petitioned congress for this common-sense method of handling this intricate question, as Germany, France, Japan and other aggressive twentieth-century nations are handling their tariff question. Yet the only hope for a tariff commission is in the Republican party. When the tariff commission idea was advanced, Mr. Bryan opposed it in formal printed debate. When a tariff commission bill was introduced in congress, every Democrat was hostile to it. A tariff commission has not a single friend among Democratic public men. Certain Republican public men are against it too; but its only friends are Republicans. A Democratic vote is a certain vote against a tariff commission. A Republican vote is a possible vote for this business-like reform.

Every labor law we have passed and will pass is a part of that web of industrial questions which we call the labor problem. But after all, the fundamental labor problem is the problem of employment and pay. Work and wages are the foundations of labor's well-being. More American workmen own their own homes than the workmen of England, Germany, Japan and France combined.

All this has come during Republican administrations. We plan to continue and increase it. The maximum and minimum tariff which we will enact will enlarge the markets for American products. Markets mean industries to supply them; industries mean demand for labor; demand for labor means high wages.

We are quickly recovering from the briefest panic in our history. Let workmen contrast that panic with the one that occurred under the last Democratic administration and then answer this question for themselves: Will the election of Mr. Bryan or Mr. Taft best help the rapidly improving business of the country? And remember that active business means well-paid employment.

Would Make Business Impossible.

That Mr. Bryan and the opposition would make business practically impossible is proved by their national franchise plan. They propose that every enterprise big enough to do business in more than one state shall secure a national license, which can be granted or withdrawn by any administration. But no business can succeed without certainty; no business man could afford to invest a dollar when he knew that his right to do business at all might be taken away by the caprice of a president or the accident of an election.

A nation without power is a nation without influence. A maritime nation's power is in her navy. With longer coast lines than any three of the greatest commercial nations combined; with far-flung possessions and a foreign commerce which in a quarter of a century will pass that of England and Germany together; with the canal giving us undreamed of advantages in foreign trade, the republic must build a navy as great as these tremendous facts require. We are midway in that work today, and we mean to go on with that programme of economy, safety and peace.

Had our navy been as large in 1898 as it is today, Spain would not have gone to war and Cuba would have been freed by diplomacy; yet the actual cash, spent in that little war, would have built two navies as great as the one we have today and maintained them for a score of years.

Mr. Bryan and the opposition are against any navy except to protect our coasts. But with such a navy what becomes of the Monroe doctrine? The Monroe doctrine is not sanctioned by international law—it rests on the strength of our navy alone. A navy large enough only "to defend our coasts" means abandonment of the Monroe doctrine.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good." and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier portions of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are now heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, there is no so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no bogus-potions, humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve-line it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equalled.

WIDOW TELLS ABOUT CRIME

Relates Her Story While Sitting Beside Corpse.

AWAKENED BY PISTOL SHOT

Mrs. Rustin Then Ran Down Stairs and Found Her Husband Sitting on the Porch Mortally Wounded—Says He Did Not Commit Suicide.

Omaha, Sept. 5.—Seated in the room with the coffin containing the dead body of her husband, shot so mysteriously while sitting on his front porch early Tuesday morning, Mrs. Frederick T. Rustin gave her first interview on the matter of her husband's death. Mrs. Rustin is bordering on collapse and her nervous system is on the point of breaking. Her face shows the signs of the suffering and strain through which she has passed since the murder was committed.

She said that on the night of the tragedy she was awakened by a pistol shot. She ran down stairs and saw her husband sitting in a chair on the porch, looking as though he were in trouble. She asked him what was the matter and he replied that a man had shot him and then he fainted. She tried to carry him into the house, but her strength failed. She summoned the servants and physicians. Dr. Rustin was taken to a hospital and died an hour later. She denied that Dr. Rustin had committed suicide and said she was positive he had been murdered. She said there was no truth in the report that she and her husband did not live happily together.

ON ATLANTIC SEABOARD.

Democrats Will Carry on Active Campaign in Five States.

New York, Sept. 5.—National Chairman Mack and members of the Eastern Democratic campaign committee held a three-hour conference and talked over the situation in each of the states along the Atlantic seaboard. After a consideration of the reports from the national committeemen present it was decided that New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey and Delaware were debatable states and that an active campaign from now on should be waged to swing them into the Democratic column.

Members of the committee reported that in their states every effort would be made to secure the nomination of the strongest candidates for places on the state tickets in order to make more votes for Bryan and Kern. It was determined to hold a meeting of the Eastern campaign committee every Tuesday at headquarters here.

Jealousy Cause of Tragedy.

Omaha, Sept. 5.—Crazed by jealousy when informed that his sweetheart, Edna Kennett, a checker at the Loyal hotel, was about to marry William Witt, another admirer, Daniel Godell shot Miss Kennett on the street, inflicting wounds from which she died an hour later, and then attempted to blow out his own brains. The bullet glanced, however, and he will probably recover.

WITH HIS CORRESPONDENCE

Republican Candidate Busy at Middle Bass Island.

Middle Bass Island, O., Sept. 5.—Judge Taft occupied himself assiduously with his correspondence, the only variation being a short fishing trip. The increase in the number of letters received has been considerable lately and the Toledo trip precluded letter-writing for a day.

Read this extract from a letter written by Mr. Story Keith, Clinton, Iowa, P. C. T., Independent Order of Good Templars, to George H. Hazard:

"I have not been as free from rheumatism for a long time as at present, and will tell you what has done it—Matt J. Johnson's 6088, made in St. Paul—perhaps you know of them, if so give them my love for they have a dandy remedy for the ills that we boys are subject to. Everyone in our family is taking it, and all are feeling better. My wife has been so lame she could hardly get up from her chair, and my back at times gave me lots of trouble. Now we are all feeling better, and will keep a bottle on hand at all times."
